

"Children have a natural curiosity and unique perception about the world around them. Art gives them the tools to communicate and express these ideas to others."

DEVON MEYER

As an artist, Devon is constantly inspired by nature. The elaborate patterns and gorgeous colors seen in plants, birds or flowers are reflected in the work she does. Watercolor is her initial medium but she also works in oil, charcoal, pen and ink and colored pencil. Her work has been shown at the Audubon Phoenix and in art shows around the valley. She has taught art to both children and adults in Arizona, Idaho and Wyoming.
