

CDC 102

Master Copies & Composition:

Practical use of design learned through analyzing and copying masters.

Course Description:

Design is best learned by observing successful examples. This class introduces the drawing students to composition and the role it plays in their work. They will learn ways to create strong designs while observing these examples. Beginning with quick studies, the students will then further practice their use of the charcoal medium on longer copies of master drawings and paintings.